

Seeing a Color-Blind Future: The Paradox of Race

By James L Dohr Professor of Law Columbia Law School Patricia J Williams

Farrar, Straus and Giroux, United States, 1998. Paperback. Book Condition: New. American.. 216 x 140 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.In these five pieces (which she gave as the prestigious Reith Lectures for the BBC) Patricia J. Williams asks how we might achieve a world where color doesn't matter - where whiteness is not equated with normalcy and blackness with exoticism and danger. Drawing on her own experience, Williams delineates the great divide between the poles of other people's imagination and the nice calm center of oneself where dignity resides, and discusses how it might be bridged as a first step toward resolving racism. Williams offers us a new starting point - a sensible and sustained consideration - from which we might begin to deal honestly with the legacy and current realities of our prejudices. Some forty years ago, James Baldwin informed White America: We know more about you than you know about us. Today, Patricia Williams sets out to repair this failing.

A very amazing publication with perfect and lucid information. We have read through and that I am certain that I will plan to study once more yet again in the future. You will not really feel monotony at anytime of the time (that's what catalogues are for about should you question me).
