Excerpt: . they could obtain a much larger circulation than the dainty literary journals were receiving. Graham s Magazine, Godey s Lady s Book, and afterward, the Southern Literary Messenger, were the first magazines whose editors found out that while there were not many literary men and women in America, there were many readers. Our admirable friend Mr. Aldeu laid down the rule for me half a century afterward, when he said in every number of a magazine there must be one love story. I do not know whether it is right for me to print this axiom for the information of the general reader of to-day, but it is undoubtedly true. In Boston a young firm of men named Bradbury and Soden conceived the idea of the Boston Miscellany of Literature and Fashion. Observe George Rex Oraham, Editor Of Graham s Magazine. the Fashions...
