By Wm J Baldwin

Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Quick Rules for Heating and Ventilating I will avoid whys and wherefores. The first question which generally presents itself is: What is the best heating system for the particular building in hand? The second question: How to determine fairly accurately the sizes of the necessary principal parts of the apparatus? Heating Apparatus best suited for the Residence First: Indirect Hot Water is the ideal system. (The cost of installation and maintenance makes it generally prohibitory.) Second: Direct Hot Water is the practical, commercial way of warming a residence. Third: The Steam Heating Apparatus for a residence should preferably be used only in the case of indirect radiation. Fourth: The Hot Air Furnace for a residence should invariably be avoided. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
